Erin -
Have a

Nice knowing ya
in the 8th grade.
You've been pretty
lucky so far,
hope it stays that way in High School!
But really, you're a nice person and a good friend.
- DAVID R.

The Jr. Aerie Staff would like to thank Mr. Cantu and all the teachers, especially Mrs. Meredith, for their help and understanding. Thanks also to Frank Oman, Josten's representative, for his time and patience with the staff. A special thanks goes to Gary VanDyke for the artwork he designed for the division pages. Also, a thanks to Mrs. Reiersen for all her hard work; none of this would be possible without her.

Erin, I was a great fun. I hope you need a friend you

CATCH HIM! Courtney Barton and Heather Roberts chase Grayson Kennedy, inspired by the exciting junior high football game.

WHAT WAS SO FUNNY? Megan Boyd and Alanna Walters laugh while they eat their lunches. Lunch is a good time for students to talk.

TOOT THOSE HORNS! Tisha Torrans and Daniel Young play at a pep rally. The Honors Band plays a big part at GJHS pep rallies.

HURRY UP! Angela Anderson, Natalie Merriis, Josh Thompson, Rosemary Neary, and Samantha Hittman hurry through the halls while socializing, hoping they won't be tardy for their next class.

STUDY HARD: Many students, like Hava Berry, use before and after school as a time to catch up on their reading or homework.

GET DRESSED! Kelson Treuheardt, Brad Adams, Jake Marshall, John Kyser, Scott Reviere, and Kirt Shell watch a video in the locker room while getting ready for another tough practice. Students often stall while getting dressed, putting off the physical torment they know awaits them.

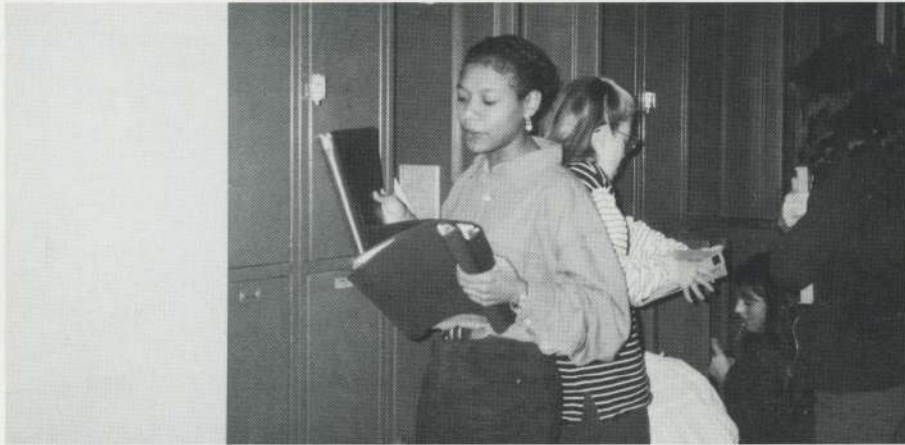

FIVE HEADS ARE BETTER THAN ONE: Malinda Robertson, Claire Swinbank, Amy Simpson, Holly Craig, and Mandy Moya talk and laugh together as they compare their busy lives. Students enjoy spending time together before school, during the five minute breaks, and after school. Lunch is one of the primary times when students socialize.

COUGH UP THE DOUGH: Corey Rogers watches with glee as Captain Cantu forks over an easily-earned twenty dollars during GJH's magazine renewal campaign. Students all had a chance to win by selling magazines and wearing weepuls to show it. If they drew a lucky tootsie roll, they won.

HELLO AGAIN: Starr Shanklin cleans out her locker because of the locker clean-out, which comes every six weeks. She does this only to redo it the next six weeks.

HI HO AWAY: Mr. Cantu and Stephen Anderson show the seventh grade one prize they could win from magazine sales. The highest seller each day receives a ride to and from lunch.

GET YOUR SPIRIT FLAGS! Emily Polasek sells spirit flags at a football game, generously giving her time to raise money on behalf of band.

DON'T FALL IN! Trey Sizemore and Levi Bizzell prepare to throw Thomas Simmons into the trash can as Ryan Meyer watches the non-stop fun during lunch.

Starting With A Life Outside Of Class

As the school year winds on, the list of student activities grow. Part of the students have fun at lunch, while others prefer to socialize before and after school. Student Life appears unending with UIL, club meetings, Project Share, and sports events.

HOUSE CLEANING? Michael Homeyer and David Schiller start the year with a locker clean-out. They find many forgotten things, like mom's old meatloaf.

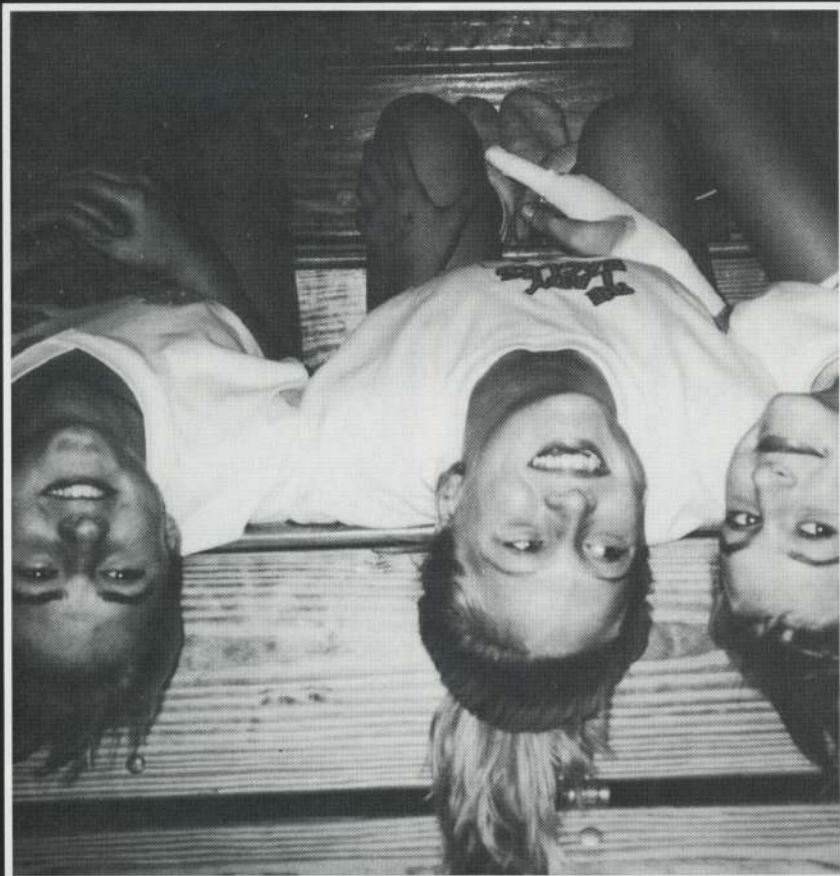

LET'S EAT! G.J.H.S. Student life gets quite lively as students release their tensions during lunches. Erica Jasso, Jennifer Dunn, Esilla Vasquez, and friends seem rather relaxed.

Remember

When . . .

The teachers kiss the pig - Josh Tucker
The Enchanted Evening Dance - Katrina Davis
The different club meetings - David Boswell
The pep rallies - Chasaty Cleveland
Shaving Mr. Cantu's mustache - Patrick Ropolo
Crazy theme days - Casey Edgar
The magazine sales - Kenneth Owens
Cold weather at the games - Stacy Washington
Crowded halls - Misty Shipman
Eighth grade Blue and White game - Nathan Kendall
The football and basketball games - Amber Townsend

UP UP AND AWAY! Look, it's Captain Cantu explaining about the various prizes students can win by selling magazines, especially prizes involving money. Mr. Cantu played a tremendous part in the successful magazine sales campaign.

GO EAGLES: A group of students devote their entire attention to an on-going volleyball game between the Georgetown Eagles and the Midway Panthers. They cheer on the Eagles to massacre the Panthers!

LET'S FIRE UP! Seventh graders give cheerleaders their most enthusiastic screams as they try to yell the loudest and defeat the eighth grade in the battle cry. But usually the seventh grade comes up short. This is one way students show Eagle spirit.

GO, EAGLES, GO! Drill team members show off their latest moves while participating in a cheer. The Blue Flames' energetic performances promote spirit, add excitement, and give the students something to cheer about.

TIRED AT THE FINISH: After an exhausting twenty minutes of screaming and yelling, Tammie Benner, Laura Dozier, Alicia Jensen, and Casey Cassens interlock fingers for the school song. The last event brings friends together to end the spirited pep rallies.

WHAT'S THE NEXT MOVE? Michelle Greenleaf dances during a crowd cheer led by the cheerleaders.

Pep Rallies Bring Excitement Spirit To The Finish

The school fills into the gym, anticipating twenty minutes of excitement. With players viewing the events from the floor, the band begins the pep rally. As the cheerleaders perform skits and lead cheers, 800 students participate enthusiastically. The battle cry gives students a chance for them to be as noisy as they like. Traditionally, the eighth grade wins the spirit stick for defeating the seventh grade by yelling the loudest. Then faculty, students, Blue Flames and cheerleaders all link pinkies and sway to the school song. At the finish, both grades leave the gym full of spirit.

WOULD 'YA LOOK AT THAT: The eighth graders stare contently at the action on the gym floor. During pep rallies and assemblies, the smallest of things can amuse junior high students.

FOR BLUE AND WHITE: The football players join in swaying to the school song. To pump players up in all sports, is the goal of the pep rallies.

V-I-C-T-O-R-Y! The eighth graders answer the seventh graders' challenge to the battle cry. After both grades rock the gym, the eighth grade victoriously out-yells grade seven.

Mica
Graves

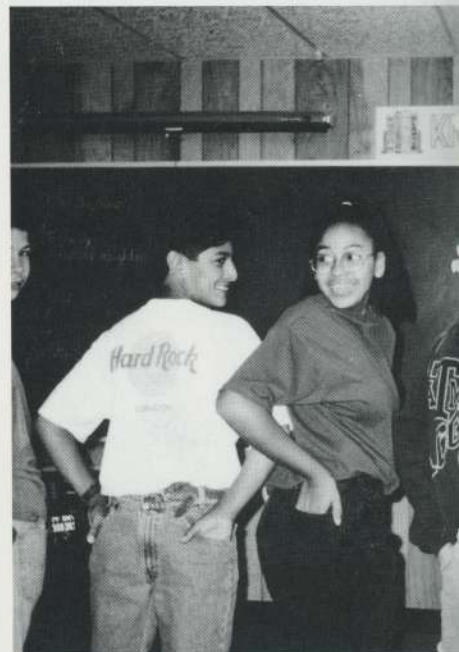

PEACE, LOVE, AND HAPPINESS! Marie Kirk goes as a hippy for Halloween '93. The hippy costume was very popular this year at Georgetown Jr. High.

WHO IS THAT? Under all that hair and hat hides Mark Enke. Students were allowed to wear costumes on "Scare Drugs Away" day.

FARMER IN THE DELL? No. Farmer Stephanie Sawyer, one of the many G.J.H.S. students who dressed up, wears her farmer costume on October 29th.

LIKE THOSE SHADES! Stephanie Foster shades out the after school sun and drugs at the same time. This was a welcome change for one school day.

WHAT A PAIR! Graduate Kim McKenrick and hippy Jennifer Tomeff visit after lunch in their snazzy Halloween costumes. Students enjoy the chance to show their "other side."

HALLOWEEN COSTUME CONTEST

Eighth Grade

Most Unusual: 1st Jeremy Hawthorne, 2nd David Spence, 3rd Marissa Mathews.

Most Original: 1st Lyle Pate, 2nd Amber Wood, 3rd Eric Hall.

Most Humorous: 1st Chad Farris, 2nd Matt Hantlemann, 3rd Lori Keithly.

Seventh Grade

Most Unusual: 1st Andrea Downing, 2nd Laura Brookshire, 3rd Erin Hall.

Most Original: 1st Landry Pack, 2nd Justin Chambers, 3rd Marie Kirk.

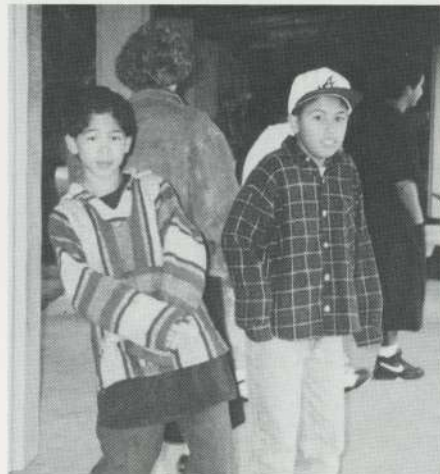

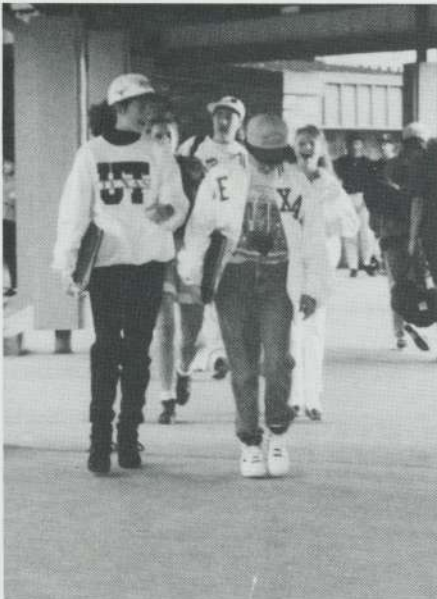

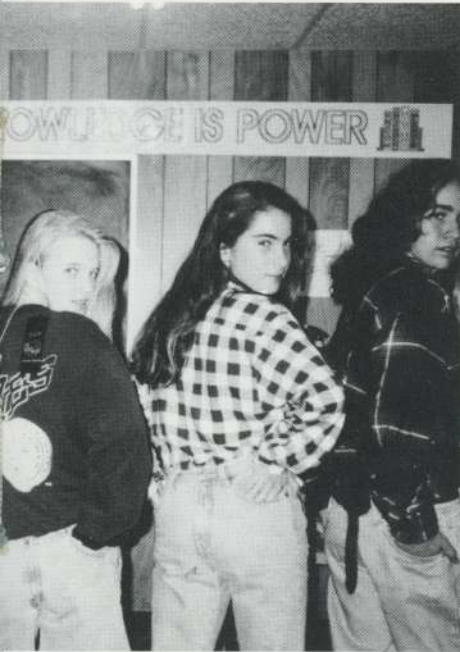

Most Humorous: 1st Brandon Moore, 2nd Jonathon Graves, 3rd Cameron Davies.

Drug Free From The Very Start

HUH? Some of Mrs. Mittlested's class participate in "Turn Your Back On Drugs" day by lining up to show off their array of backwards attire.

AM I SEEING BACKWARD? Before lunch, Jenny Grimes, Andrea Schrader, Laura Umstattd, and Lauren Weir visit while wearing their red ribbons.

"The Student Council really appreciated the way G.J.H.S. Students participated in 'Drug Free In '93 week!'" Student Council Secretary, Stacy Washington.

HATS, HATS, AND MORE HATS! Some of the guys enjoy "Shade Out Drugs" day and happily wear their hats to help show our great drug free support.

SEEING DOUBLE? Lyndsey Painter "wears" her support for "Be Drug Free In '93" week by wearing a couple of shades and a hat.

SCHOOL'S OVER! Junior High students, showing their support as they shade out drugs, head home after a day full of hats and sunglasses.

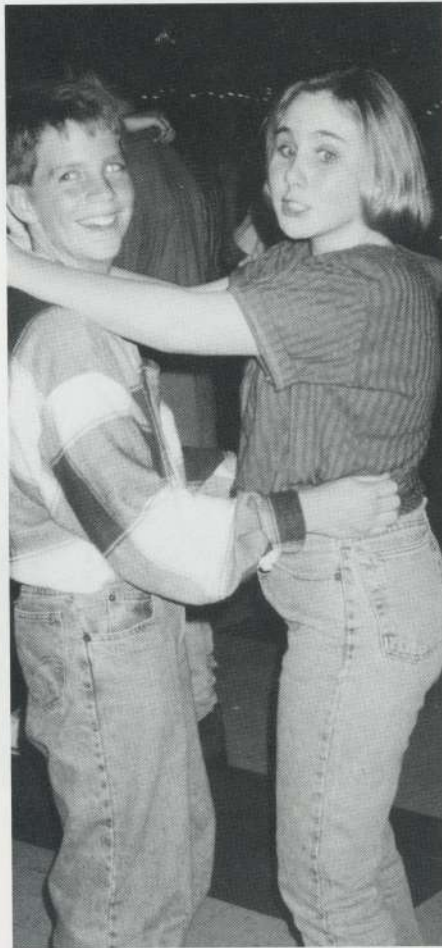

Starting With An

Evening To Remember

As students enter the room, a looming castle appears before them. Shimmering silver stars hang above the dancing couples below. At the "Enchanted Evening" Dance, sponsored by the Student Council, a versatile DJ keeps the music playing all through the night. The Yearbook Staff also sponsors a photo booth. As always, many different emotions show from all of the students, and most of these were good.

"The dance was a lot of fun, especially when they played the 'Sesame Street' theme song," said eighth grader Jennifer Grimes. Whether you got to dance with that certain someone, or just hang out with friends, the first G.J.H.S. dance becomes an evening to remember.

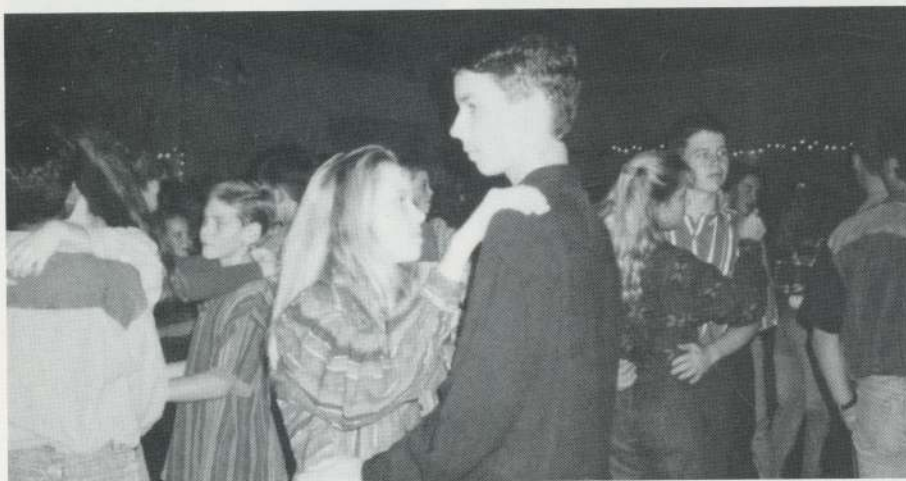

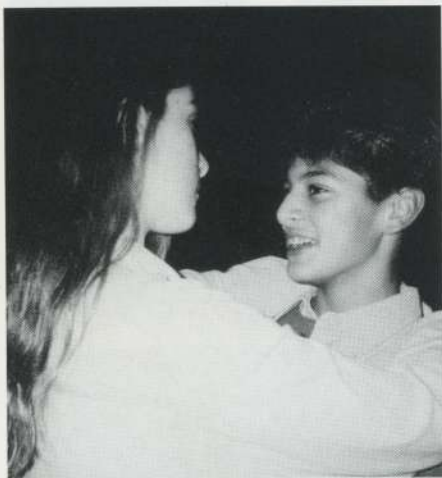

DANCING THE NIGHT AWAY: 8th graders Randy Small and Ashley Embree laugh and joke around at the Nov. 19th dance.

LET'S DANCE: David Spence, Tara Beaver, Courtney Barton, and Corey Rogers slow dance.

HELLO UP THERE: 8th graders Shad Ahmed and Eugenie Padilla discuss their busy lives together.

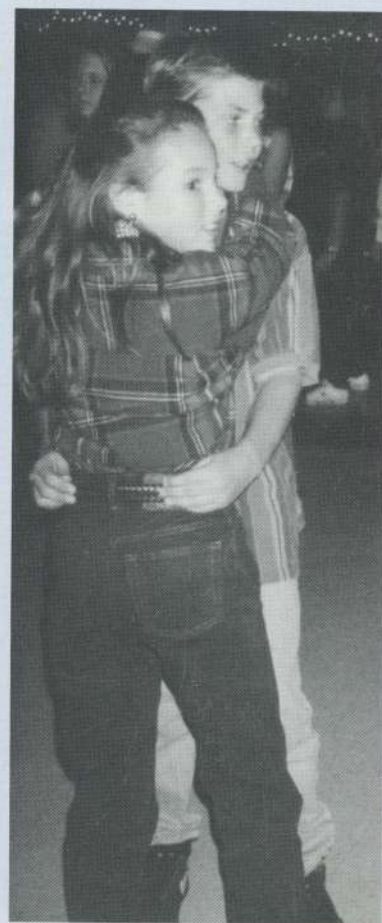

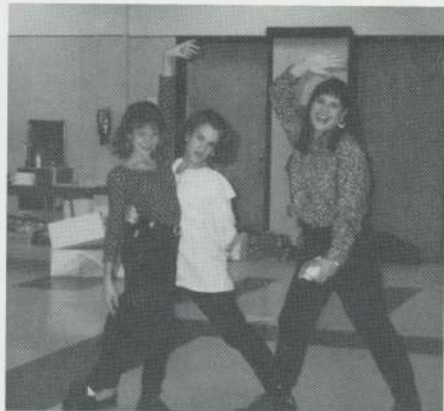

WILL IT NEVER END? Amanda Peterson and Kevin McKinnerney dance together as some songs seem unending.

STRIKE A POSE: Laura Carr, Lindsey Roberts, and Rebecca Robbins practice moves before the dance.

ONE MORE DANCE: Rosemary Mullins and Brian Anderson sway to slow music, a major part of dances.

MAY I HAVE THIS DANCE? 7th graders Megan Boyd and Travis Hobbs dance at their first G.J.H.S. dance.

A SOBERING ASSEMBLY: Last year, a speaker came to relate the dangers of AIDS. Students listen intently to one of the best speakers of the year, who was herself infected by the disease.

DON'T BLINK! Jud Hightower and Justin Bauer pose as Lewis and Clarke. In 1993, Mr. Ramirez's classes put together a wax museum.

BRRR! IT'S COLD! Sac Dominguez and his sister, Becky, keep warm during an especially cold track meet. Chris Stabeno watches GJH action.

SHAKE IT! Wendy Fustin shows off her great dance moves at the "Spring Into Summer" Dance. Students enjoy eating and dancing to the music at school-sponsored dances.

JACK BE LIMBO! Richard Lawrence bends as he attempts to do the limbo. This was just one of the activities at the last dance of the year.

JUST BE COOL: Kirt Shell and Matt Hantlemann act cool at the "Spring Into Summer" Dance last year, sponsored by Student Council.

GO BIG BLUE! Cheerleader hopefuls Brittany Rhodes, Jennifer Park, Mandy Moya, Ebony Rose, Devon Blanck, Nina Cook, and Ashley Coufal anticipate the judges' decision.

Last Year's Finish

Before The Start

NINTENDO POWER: John Krog and Beau Bell watch as Stephen Peachey plays a Gameboy. Many students brought Gameboys, Gamegears, and walkmans for the long ride to San Antonio.

COME ON: Jennifer Park, Amaris Van Dyke, Andrea Schrader, Mrs. Duderstadt, Kasey Moseley, and Orie Garcia wait for their Austin field trip to continue.

The yearbook deadline comes in mid-year, but school activities continue on until May. These two pages are therefore dedicated to the many activities this year's eighth graders participated in last spring, before the start of this year. You can see those seasoned seventh graders kicking up their heels at a school dance, frolicking on a field trip, and huddling on the bleachers at an early spring track meet. They are anxious and excited at cheerleader tryouts, and serious and attentive at an AIDS education program. Yes, Before the Start, eighth graders were once seventh graders, too.

WHERE IS THAT PIED PIPER? Last year's seventh graders march down San Antonio's famed riverwalk toward the Alamo. The Riverwalk is known for its scenery and its many shops.

WHAT'S UP DOWN THERE? Francisco Espinoza, Jackson Barber, Steven Willrich, Troy Tyson, Joseph Mayberry, and Ryan Justice look at some goldfish while at the Alamo.

SHH-DON'T WAKE UP ERIC! Exhausted students Kirt Shell, Jarrod Stewart, Eric Anshutz, and Chad Farris wait outside the LBJ Library.

HE'S A REAL SWINGER: Chris Chrichton catapults himself off the swings in a park in Austin. Many students swung, slid, and climbed during lunch.

WHAT'S COOKING? Life Skills students, Meredith Hawthorne, Jessica Parker, Brandee Brunat and Lori Keithley, cook up some crazy concoction in Mrs. Hall's seventh and eight grade life skills class.

TWIST N' SHOUT! Eighth grade football team members show their Eagle spirit along with a little silliness by participating in a dance performed by the cheerleaders at a pep rally.

WHERE DID ALL THIS COME FROM? Eighth grade student John McClung starts to clean out his locker for one of the many locker clean outs. To keep GJHS clean, locker clean outs keep moldy sandwiches and dirty socks at home.

WHAT DID YOU SAY? Lauren Wier, Devon Blanck, Brook Hampton, Jennifer Park, Crystal Stone, and Sally Spurgeon wait outside before school while talking about the most recent and exciting activities offered by the G'town schools.

Moving On

Voicing the opinion of most eighth graders who enjoyed the start of junior high but are ready for the finish, Amber Southworth said, "I'm ready to move on and meet new people."

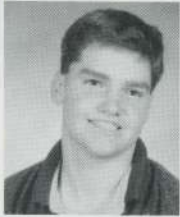

THANKS MOM! Eighth grade volleyball teams line up to give their supportive parents white carnations at their last game.

ALL TOGETHER NOW! At the Student Council lock-in, Mandy Moya, Courtney Barton, and Holly Craig struggle to their feet as they play a game where everyone works together and trusts those near them. Later they work on the next dance, have fun, and get to know each other better.

Eighth Grade Thoughts

What will be the first thing you do after you graduate from high school?

Holly Craig-"Bungee jump." Mark Lynn-"Nothing. Work at Mc D's. Travis Tanner-"Walk to the car and go home." Davey Gibson-"Thank God!" Mandy Sackreiter-"Spend a month or two with my grandma in Minnesota." Doug Esfandiari-"Take it as it comes."

Who is your idol?

Mica Graves-"Abraham Lincoln" Casey McClintock-"Nolan Ryan" Regina Bush-"Barbie" Rose Herron-"Nancy Kerrigan" Matt Hantelmann-"Andre Dawson" Jon Compton-"My dad" John Krog-"Shaquille O'Neal"

When are you embarrassed around your parents?

Dana Eckols-"When my dad rolls down the window and sings oldies real loud in the car." Amber Southworth-"When they talk to my friends on the phone." Patrick Mullins-"When they try to kiss me." Erin Crum-"When they dress funny."

What is your favorite sports team?

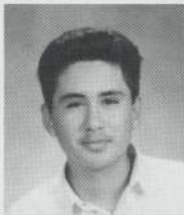

Britney Lowrance-"Florida State Seminoles." Melissa Russell-"Phoenix Suns." Bekkah Williams-"The Oilers." Teri Riggs-"Longhorns."

Have you ever seen Elvis?

Steven Peachey-"I saw him buying clothes at Walmart" Azalea Flores-"Yes, pumping gas at a gas station" Josh McKee-"Yes, he was my best friend in Graceland" Ralna Miller-"Yeh, in The Enquirer."

ZZZZ! Nikolas Lane and Joel Duttweiler take a mid-day nap during their fourth period tennis class. Lots of students could use a rest to finish the day.

ANOTHER MISTAKE? Frustrated Yearbook member Lyndsey Painter discovers a mistake on her page. Yearbook members re-work pages several times and spend long, hard hours to make the book perfect for those who bought one.

Finishing Thoughts

What do you do in your spare time?

Kraig Turner-"Stand on my head." Cornelious Mossee-"Go to the Youth Center." Dustin Dvorak-"Climb trees."

What do you expect to be doing as an adult?

Laura Wieland-"A neurosurgeon." Casey Meyers-"Practice sports medicine." Melanie Shelton-"Lawyer."

$3x+2=8$ Kristy Hollingshead and Tracy Davidson work together during Pre-Algebra to solve a challenging math problem. Many students benefit from group work.

LET'S GO: Kathaleen Herrin and Tania Araissi start for class. While Joni Richardson stays to finish up her conversation with her friends. Others take their time and sometimes end up with a tardy. Three tardies in one semester results in detention after school.

THINK, KIM! Mario Medrano and Devon Blanck sit behind Kim Cockerell as she bites down on her bottom lip and tries very hard to come up with the answer during Mrs. Meredith's history class. To some students, history is their favorite subject, but to others it is their worst. To Mrs. Meredith, history will always be her favorite.

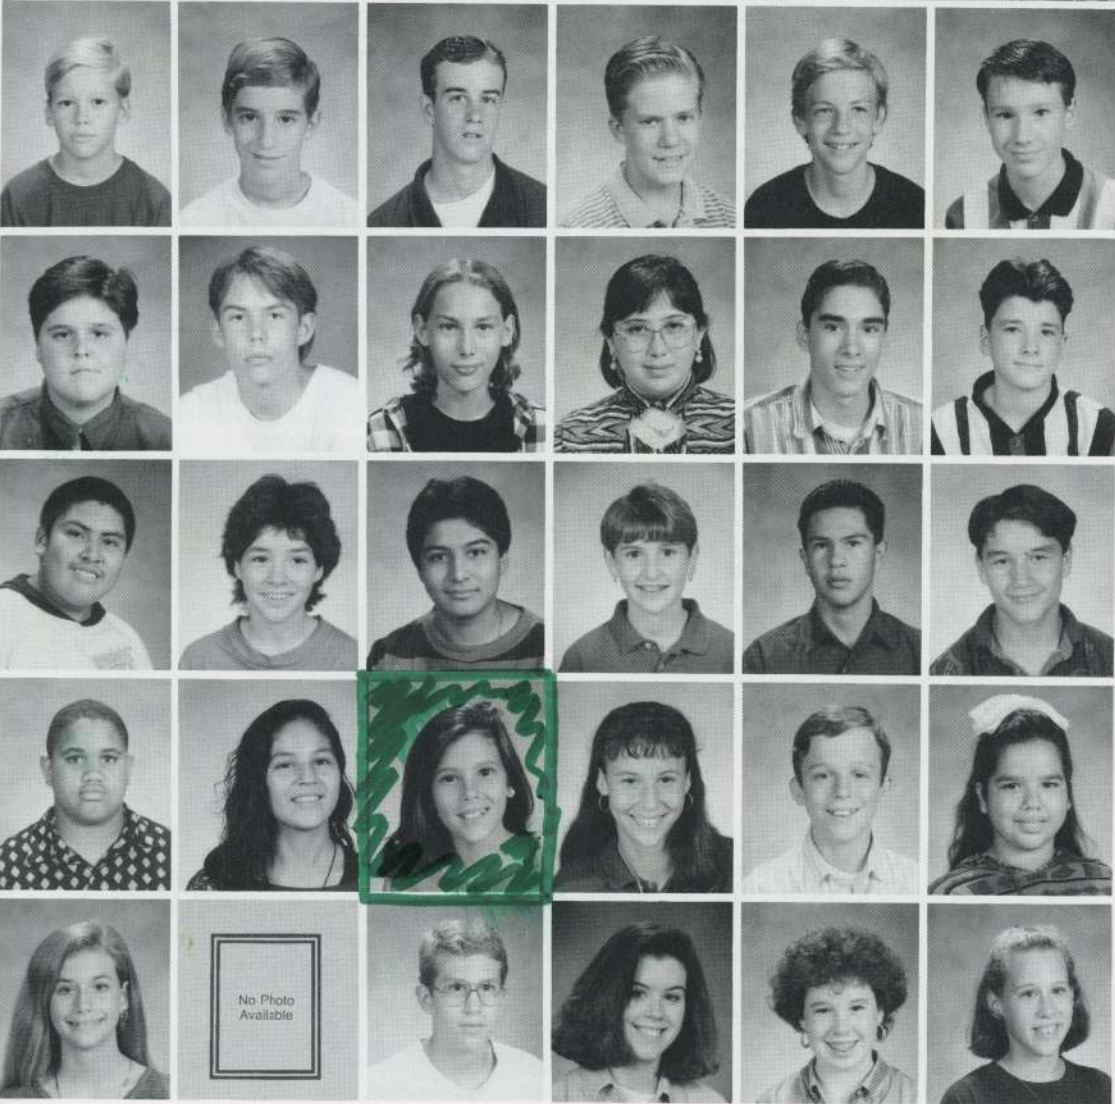

LET IT SNOW! Jesse Sanchez takes a walk in the snow while gathering snow to make a snowball. Many students also use the snow for snow angels.

WHAT'S THAT? Eighth graders at the pep rally look up to see something that has caught everyone's attention. Many students sit next to their friends and classmates during these pep rallies to watch the cheerleaders put on small skits and cheers to show school spirit that will hopefully help the players beat opposing teams.

WHAT'S SO FUNNY? Jennifer Tomeff, Tiffany Pennington, and Kristen Wierzowiecki gather together to have a few laughs. Many students use lunch to discuss earlier events.

SPIRIT: Misty Shipman, Jennifer Griffin, Jennifer Brown, Wendy Nelson, Kelly Parks, Heather May, Jackie Hartman, Amaris Van Dyke and Casey Mosely all join together to show school spirit at one of the many pep rallies. These pep rallies are held throughout the year for volleyball, football, and basketball. At the end of each pep rally seventh and eighth grade compete in a battle cry. The grade which yells the loudest wins. Traditionally eighth grade wins, which makes the seventh graders question the reliability of an all-eighth grade squad who judges the competition.

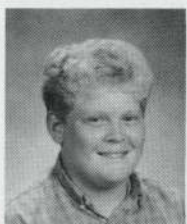

Changes

THERE IT IS! Lindsey Dent, a new student at GJHS, learns her new schedule as her cousin, Meredith Boyd, shows her around the new school. All through the year, new students come to Georgetown and enroll at the Junior High.

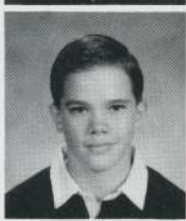

In the 1993-94 school year, GJHS encountered many changes. One major change is Mr. Cantu taking Mr. O'Neil's place as principal and Mr. Rhoads taking Mr. Cantu's place as assistant principal. Another big change was 23 new teachers to start the year. Then at semester Mr. Salvo and Mrs. Stridde took Mrs. Wheat's and Mrs. Bazar's places. Miss Rose replaced Mrs. Foster in ISSC. Mr. Stevens was out of school after a massive heart attack and Mr. Garza took his woodshop class. The school got a new counselor, Mrs. Garcia and new secretaries, Mrs. Crowell, Mrs. Denton, and Mrs. Zavala. Another change felt in the halls was a record number of over 950 students enrolled. There were not enough lockers for everyone until semester when new ones arrived. Even with all the changes, it was a great year from start to finish.

Office Aides

One of the options for eighth graders is to be an office aide, replacing athletics, tennis, or P.E. Office aides have many responsibilities such as: to pick up attendance slips, deliver messages to students, and sort deliver mail to teachers' boxes. Another option is being a Library Aide. Library aides organize books, cover new books, and even check books in and out for Mrs. Weston. Nurse's Aides, another opportunity, help Mrs. Jenkins by filling ice bags and helping with sick students. All of the aides learn skills they can possibly use later on. "Being an aide is fun because you can help the teachers." -Isela Vasquez.

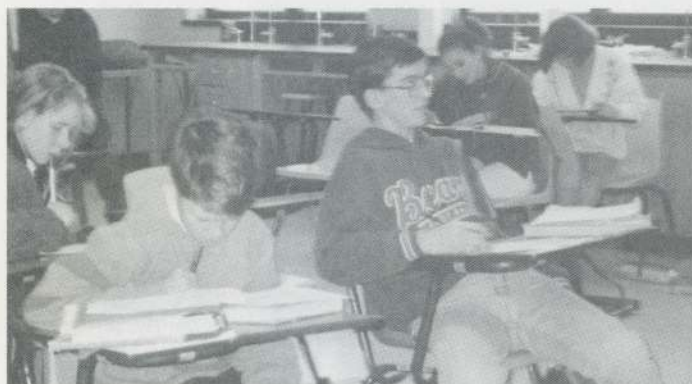

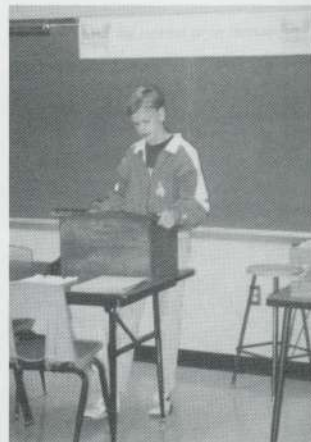

PIZZA! Brook Hampton, Sarah Mobley, Kathryn Cueva, Melanie Shelton, Michelle Carlsen, Marie Fawcett, and Adela Cruz, all GJHS aides, enjoy a pizza party given by Mrs. Crowell and Mrs. Merritt to thank them for their hard work.

FINISHING THE HOMEWORK: Eighth grader Rhonda Ooten finishes her homework assignment before the girls "A" Team plays their basketball game against Copperas Cove.

THE AMERICA OF MY DREAMS: Patrick Trainer expresses his dream of America during Mr. Tate's language arts class in response to Martin Luther King Day. This project teaches students to speak out for what they believe.

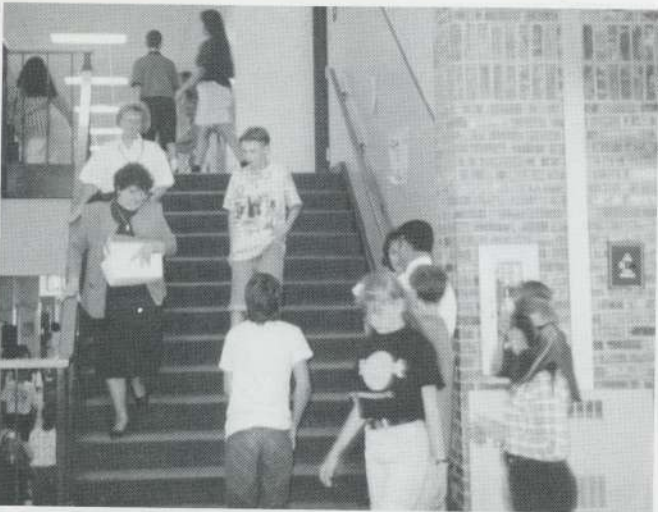

FINISHING THE JOB: Eighth grade students in Mrs. Corby's fourth period science class put the pen to the paper to complete their assignment.

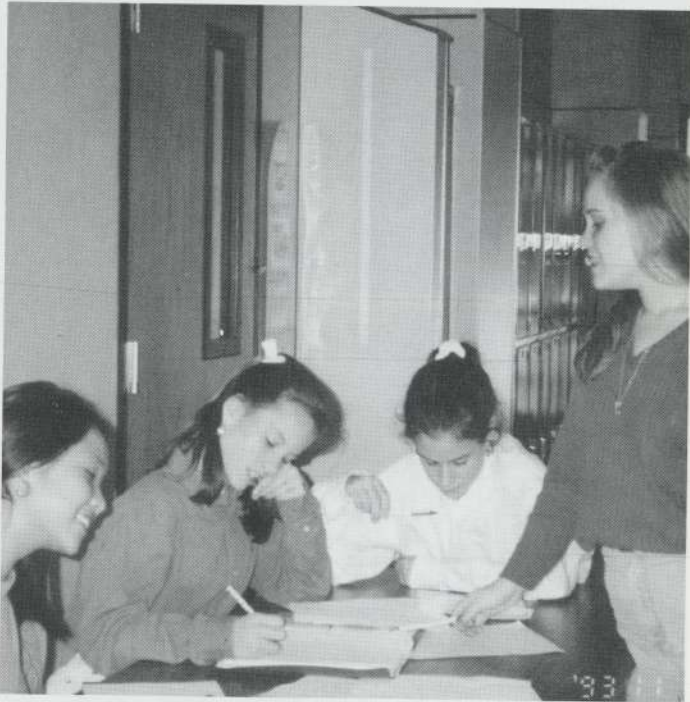

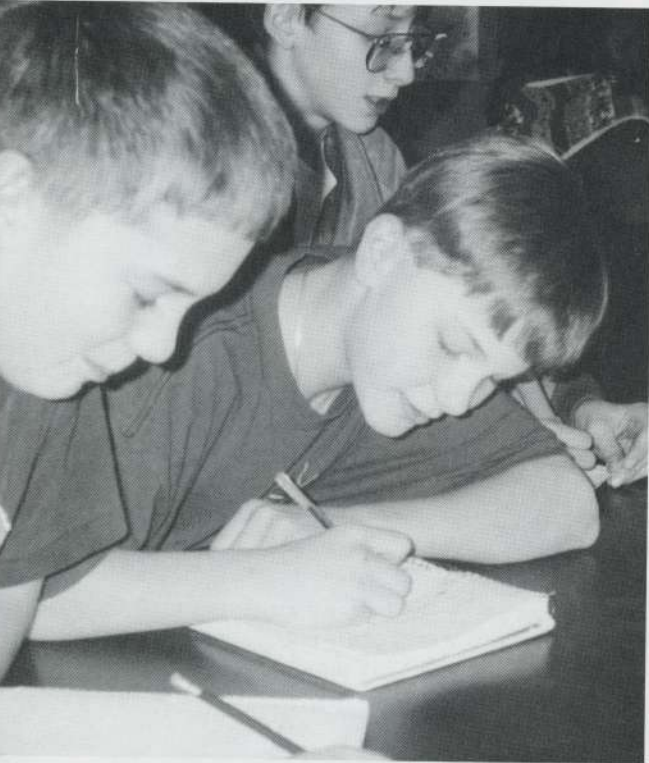

HOW COULD THAT BE? Seventh graders Matt Zappa, Brad Jones, and Victor Martinez gaze over their report cards during Ms. Duderstadt's advisory class.

IT NEVER STOPS: Busy halls reveal students rushing and teachers hustling to team conferences. Before school, between classes, and after the bell rings, activities abound in the halls. Even though three tardies result in morning detention, students have trouble getting to class on time.

ALIVE AND ALERT: Seventh grade students in Mrs. Bacchus's L.A. class check the worksheet that they completed in groups. Teachers often use cooperative learning to teach students how to work together. The look on some faces show students concerned about the outcome of the grade.

WORKING TOGETHER: Dede Hugh, Malinda Robertson, Clair Swinbank, and Stacy Washington Work steadily to finish the project during Mrs. Gidding's class.

WORK TOGETHER: Charles Salyer, Andrew Watkins, and Charles Elkins work to complete the science lab that Mr. McMurray assigned during sixth period.

3RSQ: Stephanie Martinson reviews her linking verbs during Ms. Duderstadt's L.A. class. Students' studying is the key to education.

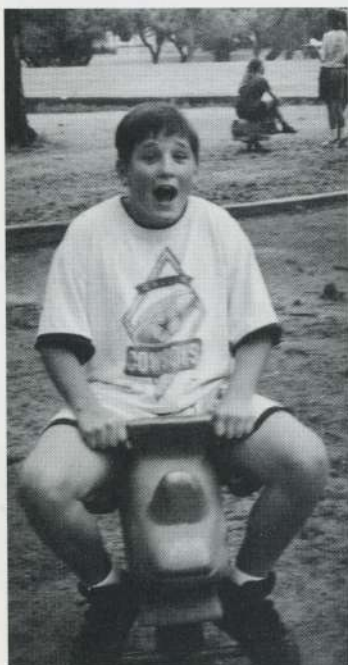

JUST READING: Eighth grader Randy Small reads the book ALAS! BABYLON. The book was required reading material for honors students.

Georgetown Junior High teachers keep plenty of projects and activities for students. These pages reflect some of the actual "learning" experiences here at the Junior High.

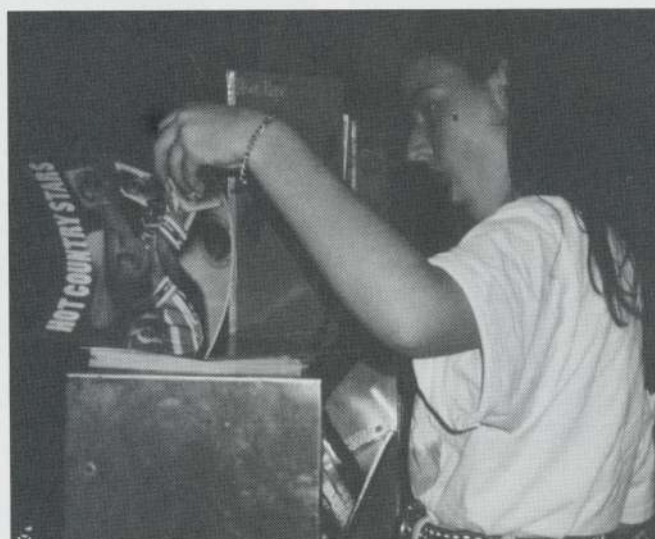

Eighth Encore

RIDE E'M COWBOY! Joseph Mayberry enjoys a ride and the rest and relaxation after a pressure filled day of school. Students have many ways to relax.

WIRRRR: Dana Eckols and Devon Blanck talk about school and life in general. Sharpening pencils is one of the best excuses to talk during class.

HELPING OUT: John Sanner, Seth Herrick, Mrs. Ducharme, and others help out in project share to make someone's Christmas better.

LET IT SNOW: Everyone enjoys snow especially students Lese McHugh and Jonathon Roblez. The last time students saw snow was 1985.

HURRY TO CLASS: Holly Dalrymple walks to her next class period. Students at Georgetown Jr. High have five minutes to get from class to class.

PURE COUNTRY: Holly Barnes takes a peek at some hot country stars. The Georgetown Junior High book fair has something for everyone.

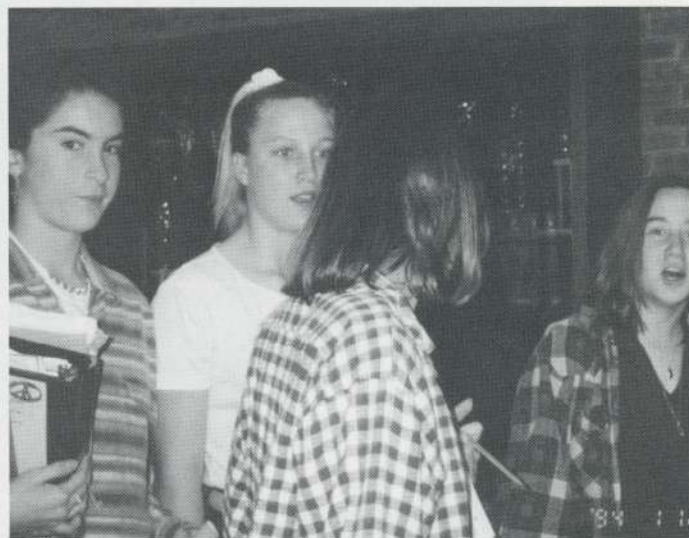

WORKING HARD! Matt Johns and Yesenia Saucedo do their math worksheets on the Freedom Team so they won't have as much homework.

STARTING TO TALK: Seth Tanner, Thomas Burgin, and Marshall Tucker talk to themselves and others to relax and enjoy themselves.

TELL US MORE: Mrs. Meredith discusses the Washington D.C. trip and her memorable experiences with eighth grade students in the library.

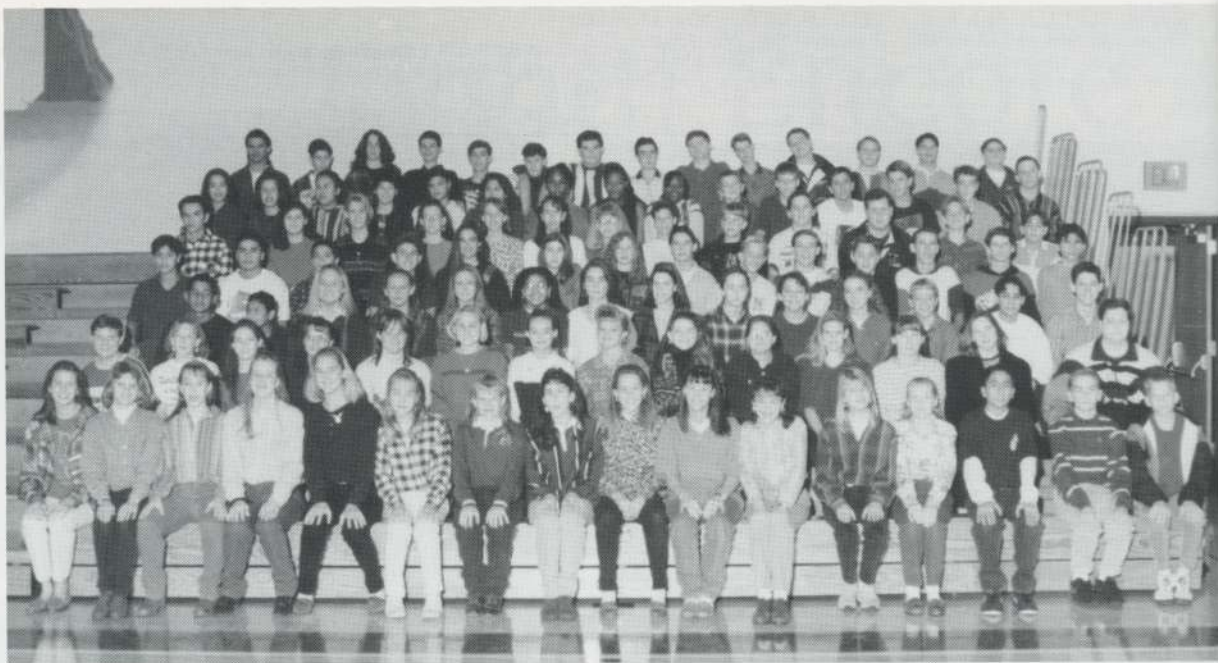

WAKE UP! Trisha Prendergast looks up from a short story she is working on in Mrs. Mittlested's classroom. This is just one of her short stories.

JUST TROTTING AROUND: Eugenie Padilla, Becky Thomas, Alexis Stone, and Carrie Span cruise the halls in between classes trying to use the time to rest.

READ, READ, READ! Chris Stabeno reads the newspaper during history as part of a project to help eighth graders stay up on current events.

Starting Over

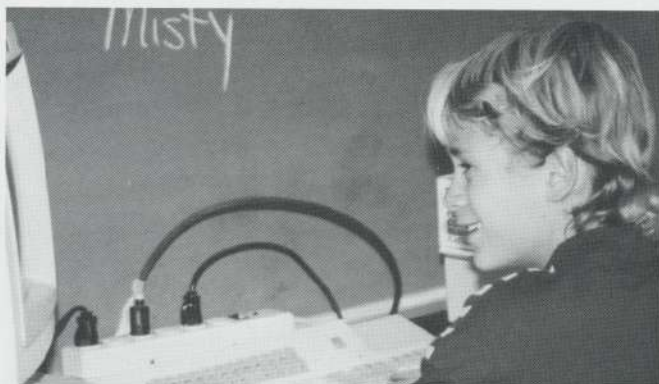

A New School For Seventh Grade

HEY! WHAT'S UP? During advisory, a group of seventh grade girls hang out and chat rather than do the homework they've been assigned.

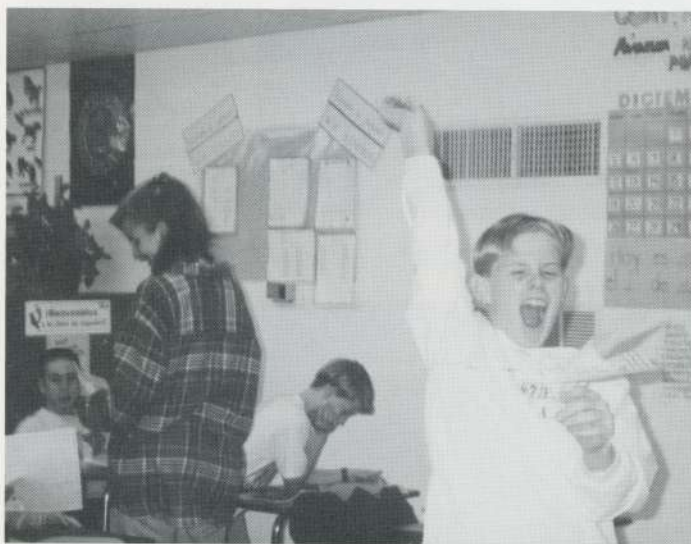

This year, the seventh grade is reaching out for academic success. The students appreciate the teachers who give their time to help them. Katie Perschbach says, "We get lots of homework that will help us in our future careers and a lot more that won't!"

STARTING UP A NEW PROGRAM: During Yearbook Class, Bret Bredthauer, a computer editor, begins to work on a new computer program for Windows.

FINISHING STRONG: Autumn Brown dresses up for her Language Arts class, bringing her book report dramatization to a strong conclusion.

A GREAT WAY TO FINISH! During advisory, While John Hiller whoops and hollers after scoring high on his report card, his friends talk and relax.

ALMOST FINISHED! Pam Fuchik, Andrea Downing, and Jessica Hollas finish their math before beginning the Alice in Wonderland rehearsals after school.

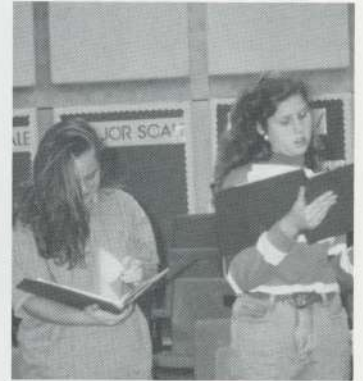

WHERE IS THAT BOOK? In the library, Rachel Loudermilk, B.J. Moore, and Patrick Reeder search for books as they learn to use the card catalogue.

STARTING WISDOM'S QUEST: Lindsey Roberts, Ethan Bennett, and Jason Shurley do research for a Language Arts project in the library for Mrs. Reiersen.

FIRST PERIOD CHOIR: Lauren Wier, Amanda Bullock, Kimberly Cockerell, Tiffany Masters, Jessica Trofe, April Castillo, Melissa Sharp, Crystal Hogg, Megan Anderson, Angelina Brown, Melanie Shelton, April McGuier, Lenice Babicki, Prissila Giest, Mayra Gonzalez, Jessica Hollingshead, Kristy San Miguel, Amalia Montes, Georgina Torres, Elizabeth Illig, Stacy Washington, Sara Gray

DO-RE-MI: Stacy Washington and Amanda Bullock tune up their vocal cords before beginning to sing during choir.

SECOND PERIOD CHOIR: Rebecca Ochs, Toni Turner, Marie Fawcett, Dahlia Martinez, Sarah Mobley, Rebecca Britain, Eugenie Padilla, Brittany Rhodes, Ashley Embree, Jennifer Grimes, Charity McGary, James Russell, Korry Hamman, Matthew Cutler, Weldon Roberts, Stephen Anderson, Paul Stoltenberg

STARTING THE DAY: While Mr. Johnson plays the piano, girls in first period Choir sing to warm up their voices. This is an important daily exercise.

Finishing Choir

FINISHING CLASS: Paul Stoltenberg finishes the last song of the day in second period Choir.

As Mr. Johnson, the Junior High choir director says, "Sometimes there are bad days, but our good days outnumber them."

GJHS Choir, led by Mr. Johnson, sings to the Junior High and performs with the High School in October, December, April, and May. The Treble Choir's favorite song is "Candle on the Water," and the Mixed Choir enjoys "The River".

Starting The Song

Band

STARTING TOGETHER: Brian Busch of Symphonic Band plays his clarinet with Honors and Concert Bands for eighth grade Blue verses White game.

At Georgetown Junior High band is an important part of the school. There are Honors band, Symphonic Band and Concert Band. To have a great band, you must first have an excellent teacher. Mr. Goodman teaches the Honors Band, Mr. Kling teaches the Symphonic Band, and Mr. Wright teaches Concert Band. Each year Georgetown Junior High participates in many different concerts including a U.I.L. concert on the nineteenth and twentieth of April, a trip a few days later, and a spring concert on May nineteenth. Many students this year have made Regional Band. They include: Devon Blank-alto sax, Erin Vargo-French horn, Doug Esfandiari-trumpet, Kasey Moseley-trumpet, Leigh Mealey-clarinet, and Amanda Allhouse-bass clarinet. Mr. Kling summed up the year by saying, "It's been going very well and we have made a lot of progress."

Honors Band

Symphonic Band

HOW DOES SHE DO IT: No one knows how Devon Blanck, commonly known as, The Twirler, attains her feats. She has performed in many pep rallies this year leaving all in awe. Ethan Bennett summed up most opinions by saying, "What form, I wish I could do that!"

READY SET GO: Daniel Young and Tisha Torrans accompany Honors Band for the assembly and instill school spirit into the students.

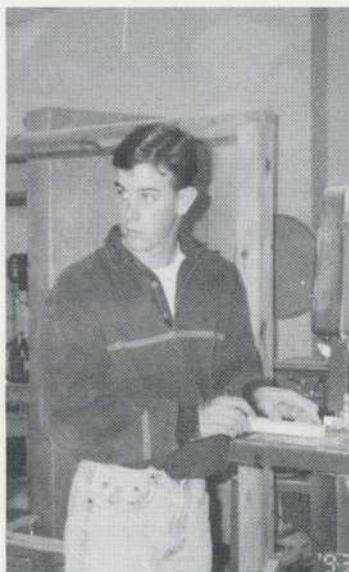

STARTING AGAIN: Damon Baladez plays the song over, on request of Mr. Wright, and finally finds harmony with Concert Band. This is the time when students work for perfection.

Starting From Scratch

In Woodshop eighth grade students are instructed how to work with tools such as sanders and saws. They can create wood objects from reindeer to bookshelves. Not only do students learn, but they participate in hands on work at the same time.

DON'T TRY THIS AT HOME! During class, John Kyser listens to a classmate and saws his project at the same time.

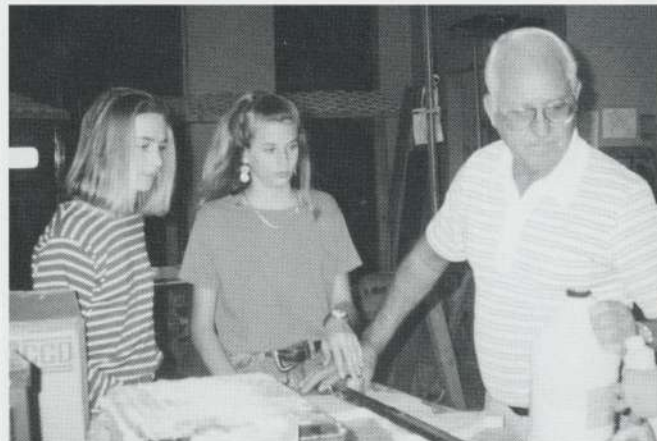

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT! Ralna Miller and Dana Eckols work on their 3-D pictures during 4th period Art Class.

ALMOST DONE! Bonnie Gandy paints the finishing touches on her Christmas candy cane during 2nd period woodshop.

I'M WATCHING YOU! Mr. Stevens shows his artistic talent by painting and keeping an eye on the class.

STARTING A PROJECT: Marissa Matthews and Amy Simpson watch how to assemble a reindeer. Students make woodshop products that fit the holidays.

"Art is observing, thinking, experimenting, discovering, planning, expressing, and creating." Mr. VanDyke

A great opportunity to create drawings, paintings, and various sculptures would describe Mr. VanDyke's Art class. His Art I and II classes teach students the skills and dedication it takes in creating works of art.

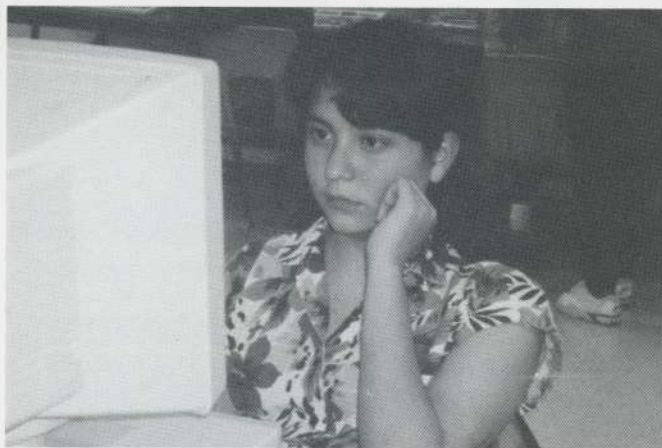

IT'S LIKE THIS: Matthew Cutler asks for some assistance during Art. By the end of the semester, students have a collection of their varied art.

FINISHED! Elizabeth Parrot and Leeann Gattis tape their finished pieces of art to the library windows.

Finishing The Product

It's almost necessary in the job world these days to know how to type and use a word processor. Mrs. Ables and Mrs. Litterist teach a course, Computer Literacy, which helps seventh graders with these skills. Each student is required to take one semester to learn and perfect computer skills, as shown by Angelica Ramos.

MEASURE THE BOUNCING BALL! During Computer Literacy, these five students are learning how to apply specific computer skills to certain everyday tasks.

DIG IN! Rolling back her sleeves, Meredith Hawthorne gets ready to help her kitchen group with their assignment. They'll get to eat it after it is graded.

Life Skills

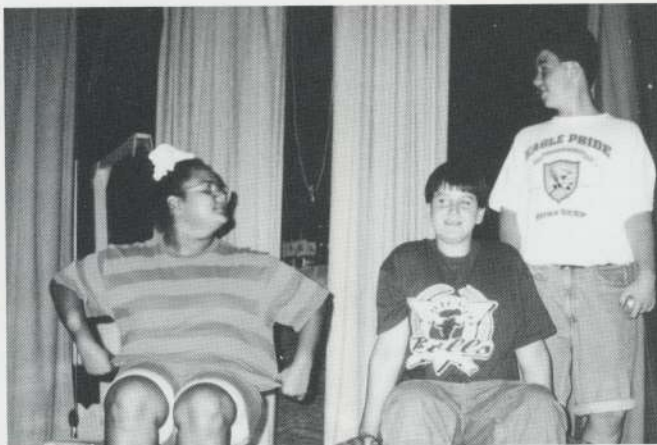

The Life Skills class helps students learn new, valuable techniques and perfect the ones they already know. During the semester, seventh and eighth graders in the class, participate in cooking, sewing and egg baby units.

DON'T DROP THE BABY! During Life Skills some of the guys share their egg babies. This unit teaches students the responsibility in child care.

DON'T MOVE: Erin Vargo, Tasha May, Rachel Campbell, and Aleia McCord critique the performance of Lese McHugh and Amy Duff. The Theater Arts Group does mandatory critiques of various plays.

OFF WITH HIS HEAD! Erin Negron, Jonathan Knipscher, and Seth Killingbeck partake in the final rehearsal. They play the scene in which the Nave is on trial for stealing the Queen's tarts.

MEOW: The Cheshire Cat, played by Erin Vargo and Alice, played by Jesse Trophe, confer together at the opening night performance and entertain both students and parents.

KISS ME, BABY: Seth Killingbeck kisses Rebecca Hay's hand during rehearsal of The Alice and Wonderland play. Rehearsing for plays isn't a one day deal, it takes many weeks to perfect a play.

TWO THUMBS UP: The cast of The Alice in Wonderland play show their appreciation at their last rehearsal. Now they can express their talent for the crowd on opening night.

Opening Night

Theater Arts

The theater arts class gives both seventh and eighth grade students a chance to express their talents on stage. These classes consist of fall and spring courses both taught by Mrs. Hazelton. The theater arts class experiences many things such as ... puppetry, acting, and story telling. This class offers many challenges for the students to learn.

"It's been a lot of fun," said Francie Hazelton, "working with the creative, unique students at Georgetown Junior High!"

FINISHING WITH A BANG: The theater arts class show their stuff at the final performance. They end with a bow before the curtains close.

FOLLOW THROUGH: Since fourth period tennis is an hour long, students like Jonathan Roblez have a chance to practice shots longer.

P.E./Tennis Finishing Fit

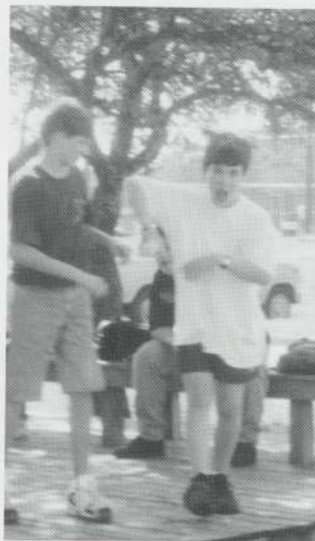

ONE ON ONE: Roberto Macias and Jose Chairez wait for Jamie Rodriguez to put the puck in play so they can start the game again.

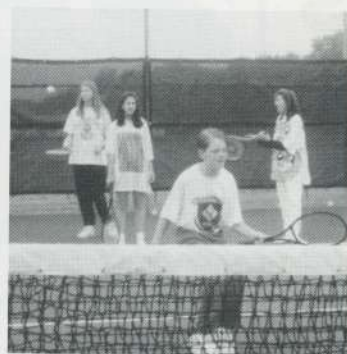

IT'S MINE: Craig Torez, Chris Frost and Thomas Kerrick all battle for the puck so they can score a goal for their team.

When playing sports you learn the basics. Learning these basics can be fun and easy in the P.E. and Tennis class. The coaches are there to help the students reach their goals. Many students take this knowledge and use it all their lives.

TENNIS? High School tournaments are often held at GJHS. Students like Matt Thompson and Ethan Bennett mimic players.

SLAM: Jay Holzer prepares to hit an on-coming tennis ball. He plays against his opponent and beats him by the score of 30 to 40.

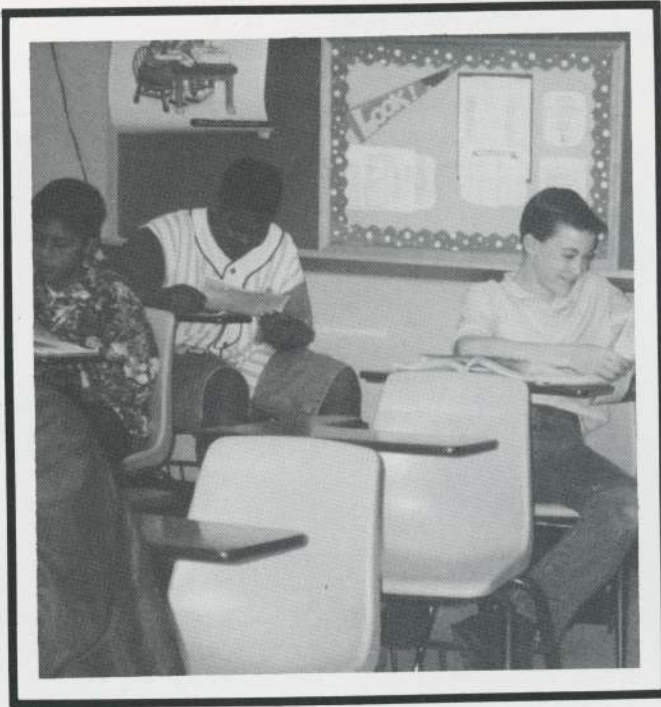

FINISHING THE POINT: Justin Dahlman rushes the net in an attempt to rally the ball. Some of his classmates wait for him to finish so they can play.

LOOK AT THAT BALL GO: Lacey Ickes waits for her rival to return the volley. Tennis class teaches students that if they practice and work hard they can excel.

STOP, IT'S A TRAP: David Roblez and Fabian Lopez discuss how they will ambush Robert Heinz while playing field hockey during Boys P.E.

FLUFF 'EM UP: Holly Barnes and Suzanna Mendina help Mandy Cemper, Catrina Davis and Natasha Herman fluff pom-poms before a pep rally.

WOW! ANOTHER VICTORY! While other students dwell on math assignments, Russel Simms and Kevin Maxwell read the newspaper to see Eagles win again.

A BUSY BEGINNING: A group of seventh grade girls mingle and discuss different subjects, while others hurry to finish homework.

THERE'S THE BELL! Wes Bloomquist heads towards a late bus after school. Students at GJHS stay late for many reasons; UIL, sports, tutorials and more.

DEAR Makes A Difference

Every Thursday, advisories look forward to settling down and reading along with teachers and Mr. Cantu. D.E.A.R. stands for Drop Everything And Read. With 25 minutes to read, students get a break from daily routines.

"Before D.E.A.R. DAY I never really got a chance to read much," says 7th grader Michelle Belt.

"D.E.A.R. DAY is cool because I get a chance to relax and read," says 7th grader Ethan Bennett.

Students, teachers, faculty, even custodians all appreciate the relaxation and fulfillment of D.E.A.R. DAY.

THE FUN NEVER ENDS! The seventh grade girls basketball team builds Eagle spirit by singing, chanting, and eating on the bus ride to a district game against Waco Midway.

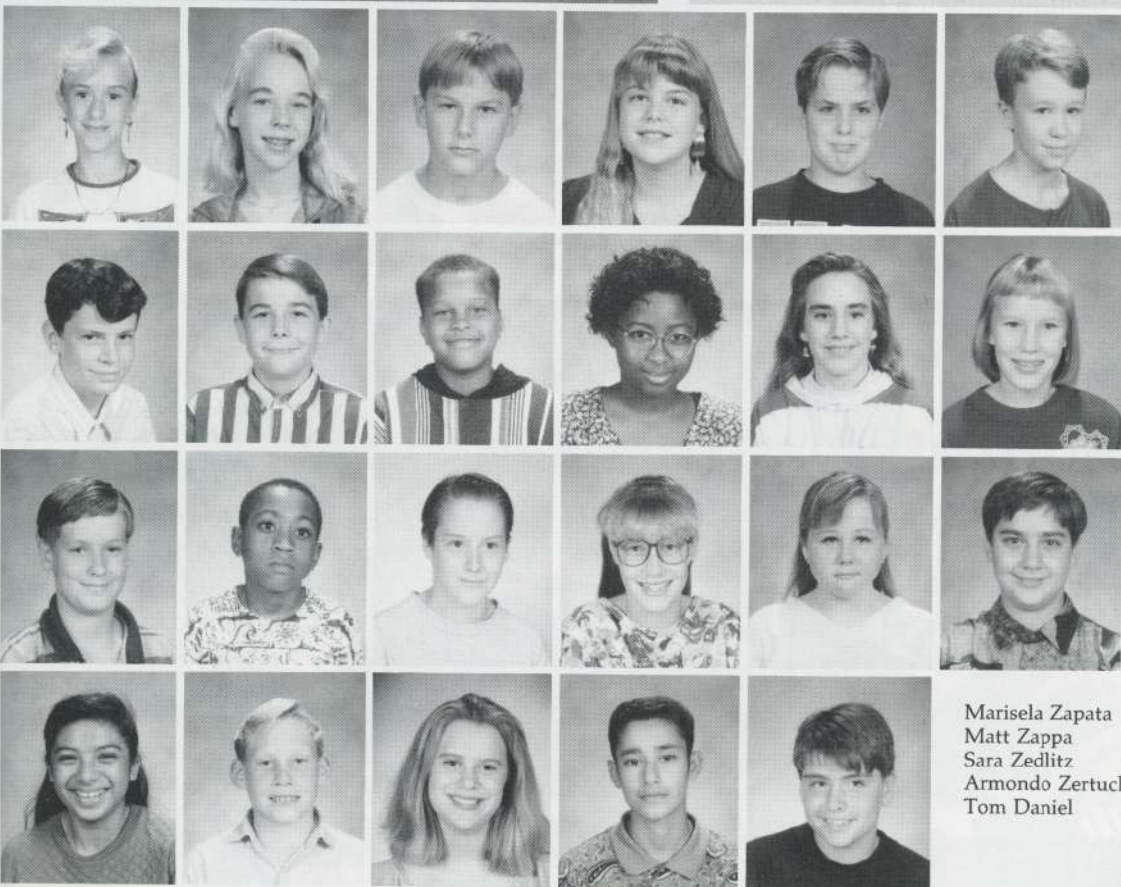

BATTLE CRY! Singing V-I-C-T-O-R-Y, the 7th graders get pumped up with Eagle spirit while screaming at the last basketball pep rally.

Break Time

Students are allowed 30 minutes to eat and visit with friends or catch up on late assignments while enjoying the candy and Coke machines. At the end of the six weeks there is an extended lunch, giving students time to just hang around. The teachers take advantage of the extra time to grade papers and catch up on the latest news.

ORGANIZED FUN FROM THE

"If you're up for a challenge, Math Counts is for you. Math Counts allows you to explore new avenues for problem solving which, in turn, gives you an extra advantage over your peers as you head into High School." — Mr. Michalik

CLIMBING HIGH: The GJHS Cheerleaders spend many hours stretching and practicing. They attend an NCA camp in the summer, and that is where they learn cheers, and pyramid formations.

SHARING GOOD FORTUNE: Student Council members Laura Umstattd, and Alicia Jensen sort through items collected for project share. Over 1,000 cans of food were collected this year.

LET'S EAT! The Drill Team members take a break to prepare for the halftime show. "My favorite dance was the novelty routine to 'Toys'," says Mandy Cemper.

"Jr. Historians have enjoyed going back in History this year with a visit to the Renaissance Festival, near Houston. They were also very busy preparing for the Valentine's Dance that they sponsored- 'The Knights of the Reigning Hearts.'" — Mrs. Snow

LET'S TALK ABOUT IT: The Jr. Historians learn about History in America. At their meetings, Junior Historians plan dances and discuss important events like National History Day which some of them entered.

"The purpose of the Science Club is to allow the students to go on field trips in order to see what Scientists do in the real worlds." — Mr. McMurry

"T.A.M.E. gets you ready for fields associated with engineering and everyone knows engineers should always state the opinion upon which their facts are based. Reality is for those who can't face engineering." — Coach Tek

T A M E

The Texas Alliance for Minorities in Engineering provides activities such as Math and Science Day Competitions to help promote interest in engineering and science fields. The 1994 spring meetings for TAME include numerous activities. One highlight is Texas' Professor of the Year Dr. Villa who plans to speak to TAME members at one of their meetings. In addition to the regular before school meetings, TAME usually sponsors an end-of-the-year dance. The sponsors, officers, and members are rewarded for their year long efforts with a trip to Six Flags or another popular attraction.

WHO WILL IT BE? Officer hopefuls Joseph Saxton, Corey Rogers, Jonathan Roblez, Paul Stoltenberg, Tara Beaver, Robert Kirk, Lese McHugh, and Jenny Grimes gather for a special TAME meeting during advisory. All of the offices except one were filled by eighth graders.

President: Rebecca Mireles
Vice-President: Tara Beaver
Secretary: Robert Kirk
Registrar: Jose Melendez
Sergeant-at-Arms: Dahlia Martinez
Treasurer: Paul Stoltenberg
Sponsors: Mrs. Garcia, Mrs. Melendez, Coach Smentek

NEXT UP: Paul Stoltenberg watches as President, Rebecca Mireles, and Vice-President, Tara Beaver, discuss the meeting's agenda with Mrs. Melendez in a January 11 meeting.

MEMBERS INCLUDE: Coach Smentek, Rebecca Mireles, Tara Beaver, Paul Stoltenberg, Dahlia Martinez, Jose Melendez, Mrs. Melendez, Mrs. Garcia, Grant Demers, Derek Woodley, J.W. Patterson, Russell Simms, Nicole Segal, Tasha May, Amy Delgado, Shelley Brake, Ryan Owen, Aaron Anschutz, Paul German, Jonathan Roblez, Corey Rogers, Joyce Davila, Crystal Hale, Sonya Miranda, Michelle Martinez, Paul Thelen, Orelia Garcia, Isela Miranda, Jennifer Dunn, Meghan Firth, Suzette Kramer, Joanne Chairez, Jesus Gonzales, Tamara Guerrero, Ethan Bennett, Charity Mc Gary, Amanda Peterson, Laura Horton, Angelica Ramos. TAME membership is open to all seventh and grade students who are interested in math, science, computers, and engineering.

TEXAS PROFESSOR OF THE YEAR Dr. Villa, who teaches at Southwestern University, came to talk to TAME members on February 8. He talked about the importance of education, how science and math effect every part of our lives, and how he became interested in biology.

"A scholar is a student who studies never gives up, and always gives more than the minimum!" — Dr. Villa

National Junior Honor Society

The purpose of NJHS is to encourage the ideals of scholarship, character, service, leadership, and citizenship in its members. Membership in GJHS's six-year-old chapter is an honor and a commitment. Members use the qualities that won them selection through community services such as work with Project Share and Special Olympics, participation in Mayfair activities, NJHS student exchange days with another NJHS chapter, and fundraisers that allow the club to present the school with a meaningful and useful gift. In the future, members can continue to use the qualities learned in NJHS when they became part of our society.

President: Jenna Kelly-Landes
Vice-President: Jennifer Whatley
Secretary: Erin Vargo
Historian: Devon Blanck
Sponsors: Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Wheat

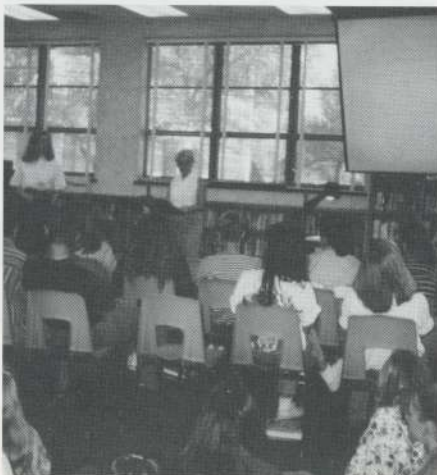

YOU WILL BE MISSED! Mrs. Wheat helps with the refreshments after the NJHS induction by filling the punch bowl with ice. She contributed to the organization and the school in many ways before she left in January.

ARE THEY GOOD ENOUGH? Amanda Savoy, Crystal Blount, and Stephen Smith get their report cards checked by sponsors and officers after school. Members are considered inactive if their grades or conduct does not meet the standards of the organization.

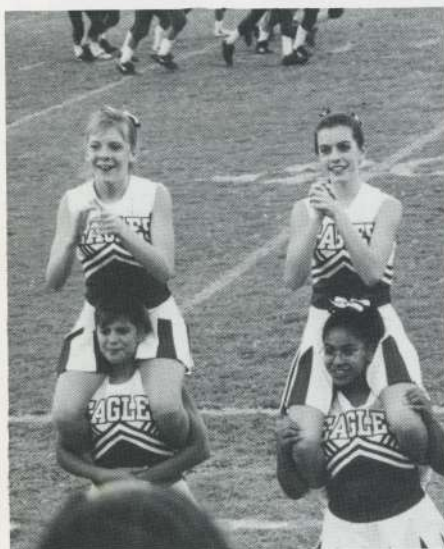

PLANNING CONTINUES: In a before school meeting in November, N.J.H.S. officers discuss ideas for fund-raisers and gifts to be presented to the school.

THIS WAY PLEASE: At the rehearsal for the NJHS induction ceremony sponsors instruct students on the order of seating, procedures of the ceremony, and how to dress appropriately. To be a member of NJHS you must be an eighth grader, be selected by the organization, and attend the induction ceremony held on September 20.

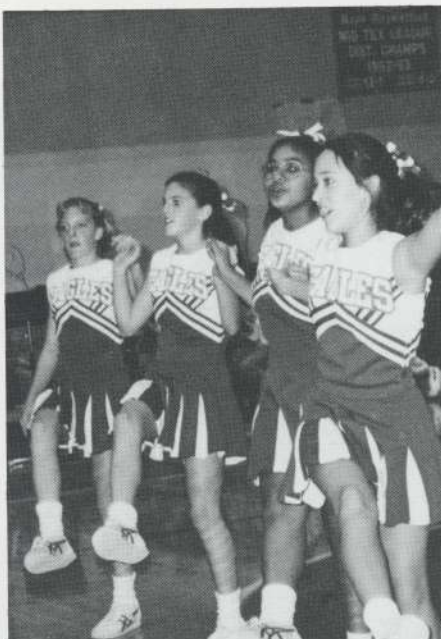

The GJHS Cheerleaders perform cheers, chants, spirit dances, and skits at games and pep rallies. They are elected in the spring by a panel of judges. They attend an NCA cheer camp in San Marcos, in the summer. This is where they learn safe and fun pyramids. This year at camp the cheerleaders brought home one blue ribbon, two red ribbons, the NCA safety award, and an NCA spirit stick. With the cheerleader's help, the GJHS sports teams are unstoppable.

FIRE UP & UP! Cheerleaders Lauren Weir, Jennifer Park, Jennifer Whatley, and Ebony Rose fire up the Eagle fans at the seventh grade game against Waco Midway.

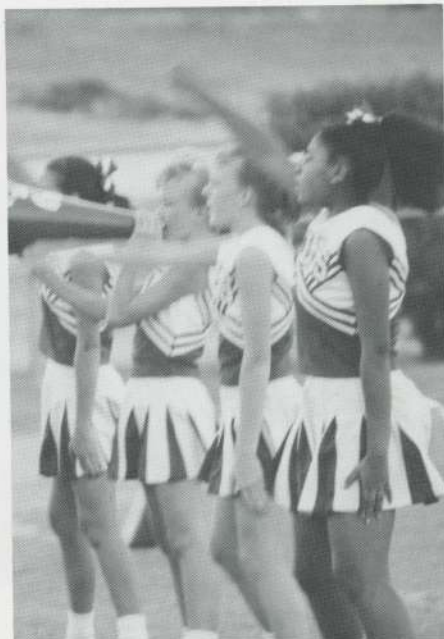

Cheering To Victory!

FOR BLUE AND WHITE! Cheerleaders sing the school song at the end of a football pep rally. When the band plays the school song, it gives the players a sense of Eagle Pride.

C'MON C'MON EAGLES! The Cheerleaders have no easy task. Aside from cheering at games and pep rallies, they promote school spirit. "It's hard to pep-up the crowd!" says Erin Vargo.

EVERYBODY GET TOGETHER! There is excitement and Eagle spirit in the air as the GJHS Drill Team members perform a routine to a jazz remix of the 1960's song "Get Together."

The Drill Team performs routines at pep rallies and at football games, and they also support the cheerleaders by cheering along with them. During the first semester the Drill Team partakes in a cooperative learning experience. They learn novelty, jazz, and kick routines put to a wide variety of music. With practice after school every day, the drill team perfected the routines. The drill team sponsor, Karen Bazar said, "I am so proud and honored to have had the opportunity to work with twenty-seven young ladies that cared about teamwork enough to pull off a polished performance each and every time!"

GET YOUR SPIRIT RIBBONS! Drill Team Capt. Corrie Snow and Lt. Brook Hampton sell spirit ribbons for fifty cents each. This is the first year the drill team has done a fund raiser.

Volleyball

ACE THOSE SERVES! Starting with a good toss and ending with a follow through, Alicia Henry breezes one of her serves right past the Waco Midway players. The eighth grade A team served 203 aces during the 1993 season.

"What determination and competitiveness," says Coach Klar, the eighth grade volleyball coach, about the season. From the start, the eighth grade teams dedicated themselves to a winning season. They practiced two to three times a week after school and occasionally in the mornings. As the season came to an end, the eighth grade A team ended up in a three-way tie for first place with Temple Travis and Waco Midway.

"If someone were to look at our win/loss record, they would think that we didn't have a winning season, but I truly believe we did. The seventh grade girls continued to improve with every game," Coach Tabor, the seventh grade volleyball coach remarks about the 1993 season. The seventh grade girls learned a new 6-2 offense as well as various drills the high school uses. Each seventh and eighth grade volleyball player contributed to the season in their own way.

Georgetown Eagles

The 1994 football teams had a great season from start to finish. The season began by expanding the teams from six to eight to give more boys a chance to play. "We've had a hard season, but the boys worked hard and did a good job," says Coach Goodman.

WHAT A PLAY! #6 Adam Gawarecki and #45 Dustin Tuma, show their stuff. It's these kind of passes that get the Georgetown Eagles through their exciting season.

OUCH! Bruised, and bloody Brandon Moore takes a breather from the Cove defense. Next play he is back in to give some strength to the Eagle offense. This turned out to be a fun season.

Girls Basketball

Eighth Grade Wins District

The Eighth Grade girls basketball team ended the year with memories of a winning season. Unselfish team play, industrious individual play, and sheer resolve carried this team to the title of Mid-Tex District Champions. Coach Lorraine Rossmeier stated, "I enjoyed every practice and game with my "A" and "B" teams because their skill level was exceptional. The two things I remember most about the season is my "B" team going undefeated and my "A" team beating Waco Midway in their District Tournament.

Eighth grade A Team-Rebecca Ochs mgr., Samantha Hitman, Alicia Henry, Coach Lorraine Rossmeier, Angela Anderson, Alicia Jensen, Elizabeth Ramsey mgr., Meredith Hawthorne, Lindsey Holmstrom, Stacy Washington, Ebony Rose, Casey Cassens, Holly Craig, Rhonda Ooten, Claire Swinbank.

ENERGY FOR THE BIG GAME! Good nutrition is important for athletic achievement. Mandy Moya and Rhonda Ooten follow the requirement with a sack lunch plus good conversation. The team is on its way to a late game against Travis.

BEAT THAT FORM, MICHAEL JORDAN! Alicia Henry shoots a free throw to help her team toward another victory. The Georgetown ladies easily defeated Copperas Cove 55-19.

WAITING FOR THE REBOUND: Melissa Russel guards her opponent as Cove attempts a free throw. Copperas Cove never got enough momentum to close the point margin on the Eagles.

Eighth grade B Team-Elizabeth Ramsey mgr., Nicole Segal, Jessica Burrow, Coach Rossmeier, Emily Knight, Melissa Russel, Rebecca Ochs mgr., Britney Lowrance, Kim Cockrell, Laura Umstattd, Mandy Moya, Laura Dozier, Toni Turner, Jaclyn Hartman, Laura Brosch, Azalea Flores.

BLOCK THAT PASS! Stephanie Martenson anticipates a pass from a teammate. The Eagles won the game, 26 - 6.

DEFENSE! Jodee Wilson and Erin Carmichael position themselves under the basket as they get ready for a pass.

Winning Seasons Exclaimate The Year

This was a great season in basketball for the seventh and eighth grade boys teams. The eighth grade boys won district this year with a lot of pride to show. The Eagle coaches were not surprised with the outcome of the seventh and eighth grade teams. The coaches knew this would be a fast paced season. With the eighth graders winning district two years in a row, it sets a standard for the seventh graders, and shows them that it can be done. "This was an excellent year," says Coach Goodman. "It was fun and played really well."

NO CONTEST! Lee Lundin shoots his turn of the warm up free throws, swishing them both. Warming up gets the Eagles ready for the contest.

OUT OF MY WAY! John Kyser puts a move on the Midway defense to add two more points to the Eagle scoreboard. The Eagles turned out with a great season.

Track/Cross Country

EAGLE TRACK: A LAP AHEAD OF THE PACK

The Eagle Track and Cross Country teams stay a step ahead of the pack. The Eagles practice everyday during and after school to achieve their goals. After all of this the Eagles finish with lots to be proud of.

PUMPIN' IRON: Seventh grader Kevin Maxwell squats 105 pounds as Patrick Reeder watches on. Track runners usually lift weights to build up muscle.

POISED AND READY: The Cross Country team members take time to pose for the camera; both teams finished with their best foot forward.

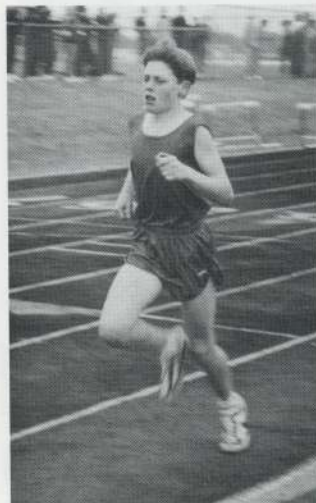

COOL SWEATS! Seventh grade track members receive their sweats during athletics. Sweats really come in handy during some of the frigid meets.

DISTRICT CHAMPS! Last year's seventh grade boys bring home the gold from the District Meet. They did well all season, and this was the icing on the cake.

MORE POWER! Nicole Propst uses her strength to throw the shot put at the 1993 GJHS track meet. This event helped the Lady Eagles finish in second place.

ALMOST THERE! Thomas Simmons rushes to a first place finish at 1993's Eagle Track Meet.

ABY JORDAN: Jeremy Clayman takes off at mid-court for the toss up. The Eagles could steal some games with good starts like this.

Seventh Grade A Team: Jake Mormon, Donald Harris, Mark Bray, Coach Patrick Goodman, Jeremy Clayman, Leland Hill, Jason Allman, Tony McKenzie, Kevin Laszenski, Steven Anderson, Grayson Kennedy, Will Smith, David Schiller, Jared Lowrance, Cameron Davies, Mike Wilburn, Brandon Skaggs.

Seventh Grade B Team: James Murdock, Micha Kohutek, Ben Ryden, Patrick Goodman, Blake Beall, Michael Povcovich, Jomo Rose, Ben Anderson, Jason Doss, J.P. Taylor, Geoff Seaman, Joel Knight, Scott Evers, Brandon Skaggs, Travis Hobbs, Wesley Bloomquist, David Schiller.

GO GET EM! Cameron Davies leads the seventh grade A team onto the court. By warming up before the game, the Eagles were able to overcome Belton.

SPEEDY! Jared Lowrance steps away from the Midway defense, making a shot and receiving the foul. The Eagles offense overpowers their opponent's defense.

Finishing Up

From start to finish, the Yearbook Class enjoys compiling this memento of the 1993-94 school year and hopes you enjoy reading your copy. The purpose of the Yearbook is to bring back memories of this junior high year, and the staff members have covered each activity to the best of their ability. The Yearbook Staff is sincerely grateful to all those who purchased a copy of the 1994 Jr. Aerie.

WHO'S AFRAID OF WHOM? Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Reiersen, and Ms. Dunson watch the pig they have to kiss squeal and squirm. Maybe it's more afraid of people than they are of him! Teachers were forced to kiss a pig if their students contributed enough funds for them to be one of the top three.

Hey! This is a picture of one of my most painful moments. I can't stand to see you next year! Josh Thompson

IS IT REALLY THAT GOOD? Language Arts teachers have a way of pointing out the good points in a piece, even if the student didn't realize they were there. Josh Thompson looks on as Mrs. Hart critiques his writing, a poem called "Horseshoe Pond."

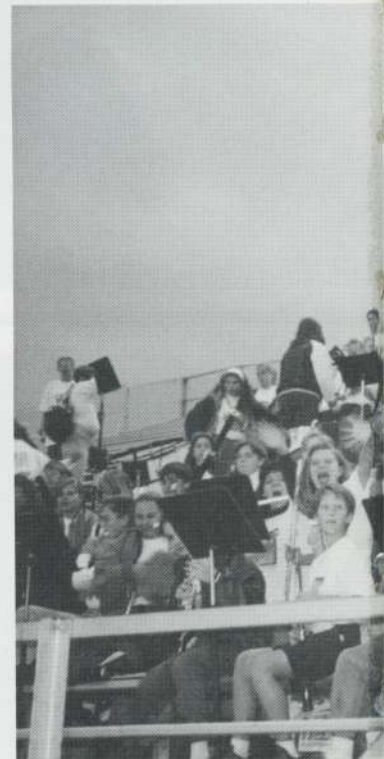

CATCH SOME TUNES: Rachel Marshall, Monica Wuthrich, Natalie Shimek, Liz Colbert, and Jacklyn Beale talk together after class as Lisa Algood puts an audio cassette in a walkman. Students use walkmans to provide entertainment on the bus ride home.

READY FOR ANYTHING: Seventh graders John Hiller, B.J. Radkey, Brandon Fuch, and Tim Arthur horse around while hurrying to class. Many students enjoy before school as time to get together with friends.

SHINING MUSICIANS OF GJHS: Honors band students finish up the football season by playing at the eighth grade Blue vs. White game. This was a great opportunity for them before they start high school.

Tennis Team

SERVE'S UP! Nina Cook practices a picture perfect serve. Practicing their serves often gives the Eagles another edge on their opponents.

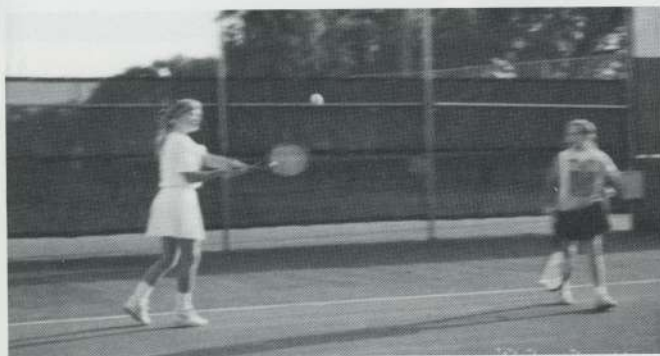

Tennis

GJHS always has Tennis Teams that know how to win, and this year is no exception. The Eagles made new changes starting with a different coach and larger teams. The teams adjusted well and finished with a great season.

"The season is great and I'm having lots of fun," says eighth grader Jonathan Roblez.

HOWDY! The 1993 Tennis Team waves to the camera after an exciting year. The team did great, and can't wait until next season.

MATCH POINT! Eighth grader Becky Thomas returns a ball with a perfect swing during a tennis match as Laura Umstatt patiently watches on.

COURTSIDE: The 1994 Tennis Teams take time to have their pictures taken. After a hard day of tennis, posing for a picture seems easy.

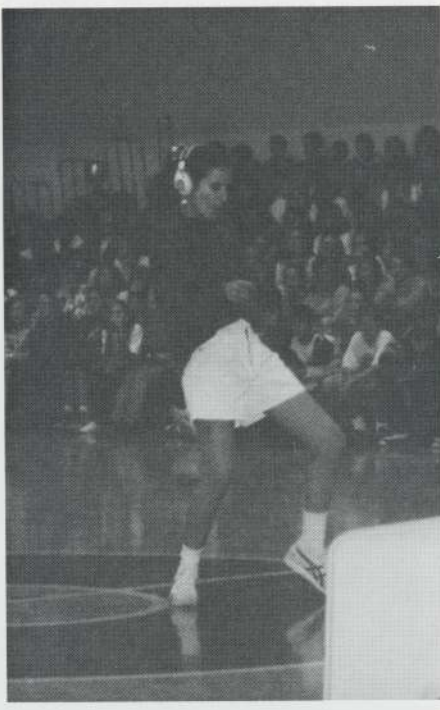

1993 Eagle Tennis

Eagle Tennis teams had a great 1993 season finishing in first place at their District Tournament. The team's skills improved rapidly throughout the season.

GEOMETRY ISN'T UNTIL HIGH SCHOOL: Eagle cheerleaders construct a human pyramid to showcase their skills. Each pep rally they work hard to entertain Jr. High students, with well-earned success.

ERIN GETS DOWN: Cheerleader Erin Vargo dances to the beat of disco during a pep rally. The last pep rally included several clever skits, performed by the Cheerleaders for the amusement of all.

WHICH PLAY WAS THAT? Eagle football players Wesley Bloomquist, Jake Mormon, and Matt Zappa relax and converse after finishing up a strenuous game. Each person on the team had something to talk about — nearly every team member played during each game.

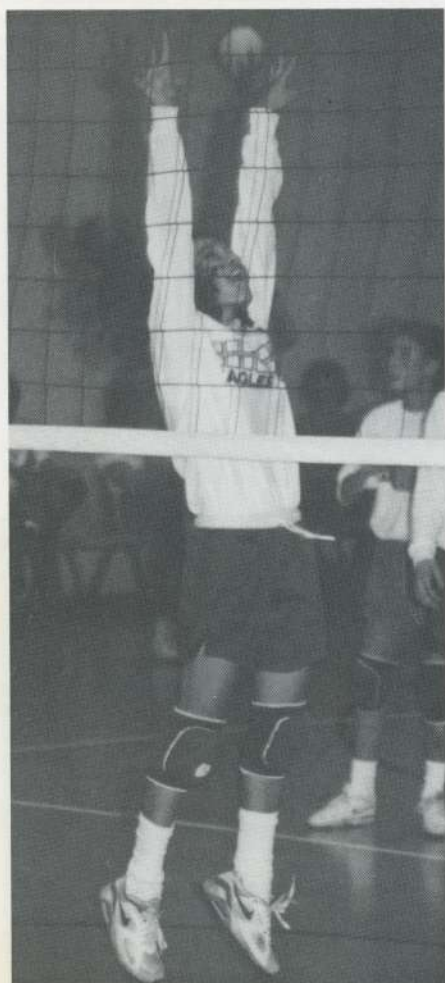

WE CAN DO IT! Eagle football players hurry on to the field, ready to play their hardest. Stamina and perseverance helped the Eagles work as a team to realize one goal — to achieve to their potential.

CAN I HAVE SOME? During their lunch time, as they finish up their meals, Eric Anshutz, Darwin Shell, and Bo Brock chuckle together, while Bo and Eric eye Darwin's candy longingly. Students commonly "borrow" each other's food when hunger strikes.

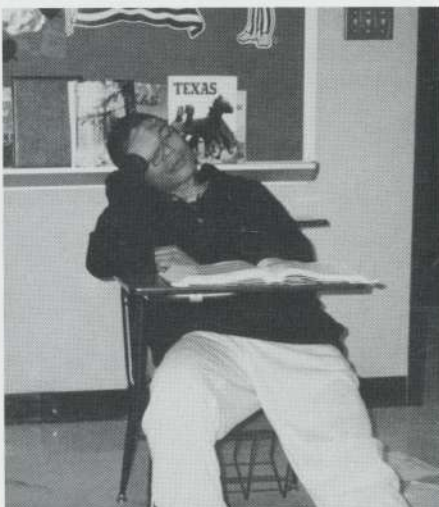

ARE YOU READY? As the volleyball team waits in the gym for the games to begin, players joke, converse or catch up on their homework. Sometimes players bring along friends and relatives to cheer for them. Tracy Davidson even brings along a stuffed animal for good luck.

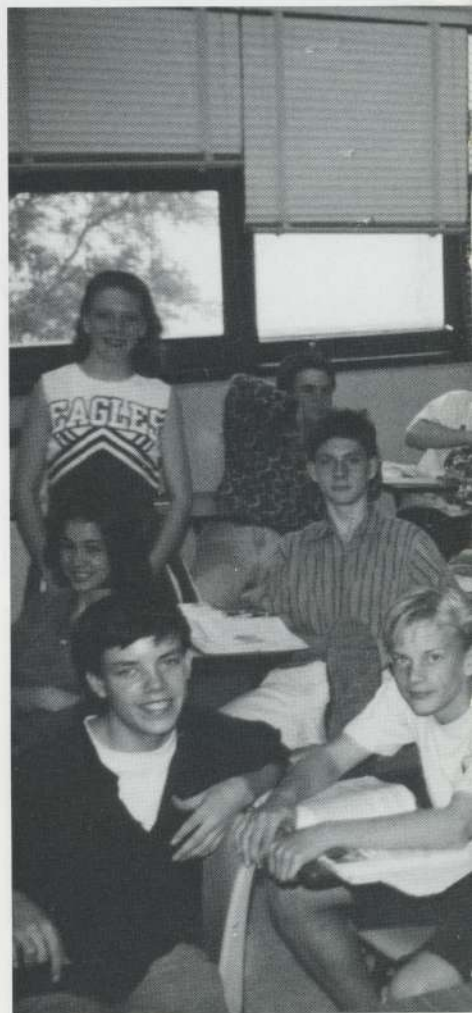

JUMP AROUND! Mayra Gonzales springs up to set the ball, as the B Volleyball team attempts to beat Westview in the Sept. 18 tournament. The Lady Eagles finished the season with a 5-7-2 record.

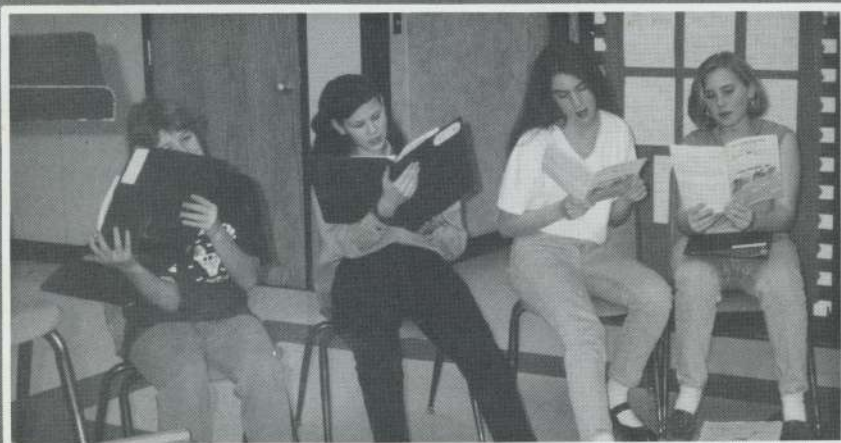

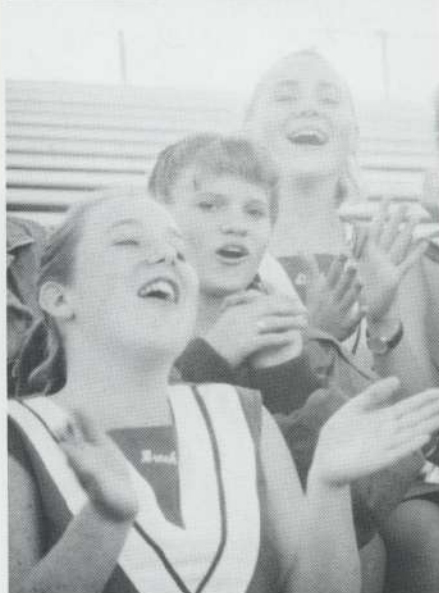

CATCHING A FEW Z'S? Eighth grader Nick Shanklin snoozes in Mrs. Snow's seventh period American History class. By last period many students are tired after a day full of schoolwork.

ENJOYING LIFE AT SCHOOL: Students from Mr. Salvo's eighth grade Pre-Algebra class take a second to glance at the camera. Mr. Salvo took Mrs. Wheat's place after she moved earlier this year. He teaches both Algebra and Pre-Algebra, as do all the other 8th grade math teachers at the Junior High. This allows students to practice math at their capability level.

JAZZIN' UP THE GAME: Drill teamers Brook Hampton, Corrie Snow, and Elizabeth Ramsey cheer along with the cheerleaders at the Sept. 27 game. The drill team dances at all the home games.

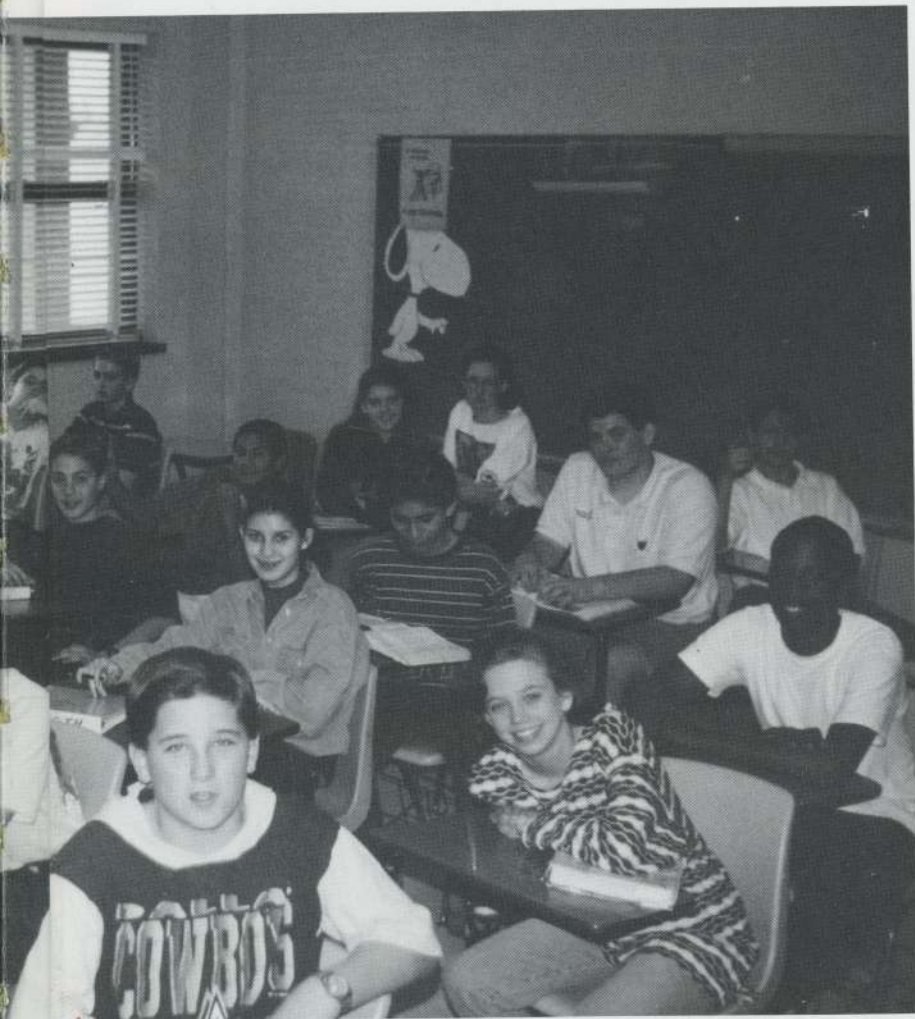

ZIP-PED-DEE-DO-DA! Toni Turner, Marie Fawcett, Eugenie Padilla, and Ashley Embree sing this favorite Walt Disney Classic in sixth period Choir. The Choir does concerts as well as compete in U.I.L.

TAKING A CLOSER LOOK: Cole Hall works on group work with Allison Bergman, Lauren Johnson, and Natalie Shimek in Mrs. Steven's advisory as Seth Miles looks on. Advisory is for kids to finish their homework.

THE AGE OF TECHNOLOGY: Mrs. Hart teaches Emily Polasak how to use Claris Works on her Apple computer during Writer's Workshop. This is an activity that allows students to select what they want to write.

HOME SWEET HOME: Students from bus sixty-two talk while they wait patiently for the bus to come and take them home. Many students take the bus home, so there are usually many lines after school.

Hey Erin - glad
I'm really glad
I know ya, You're really sweet! Never change. You're an awesome cheerleader
(I voted for you -
what a stud of course)

FISH
RULE

Erin, Thanks for being such a sweet friend. Don't a sweet exchange of good even bye in 9th grade.

Erin,
You really rocked as a cheerleader.
I can't wait until we're fish next year. ☺
